Online Casino Deposit Methods for Norwegian PlayersWhile the government has a state-run monopoly on online casinos, Norway customers are still allowed to play on many offshore gambling sites. Real money deposits and withdrawals can usually be made in Norwegian Crowns using a bank transfer or credit card. However, converting funds to SEK, EUR or GBP is also possible on most sites. When it comes to online gambling, Norway players have plenty of payment methods to choose from. Credit, Debit, and Prepaid CardsNorway online casino sites often accept large credit cards as payment. In addition, many accept prepaid cards, you should want to avoid using your personal card to play at an online casino that accepts players from Norway. VISA, Mastercard and American Express are generally accepted, but it's helpful to check your favorite site to confirm which cards they accept. When we look at Norway online casinos, payment methods are an important criterion. A site with multiple options stands out from a site with only one or two payment methods. BitcoinBitcoin is the hot digital currency that is widely accepted at premium online casinos, including Norway casino sites. Norwegian gamblers can make deposits using a cryptocurrency without the central bank interfering. There are no costs associated with using Bitcoin or any of the accepted alternatives such as Litecoin. When you make a transaction from a Bitcoin wallet at an online Norway casino, the digital currency is usually converted into USD or EUR first. Players can then easily load their favorite slots and table games. The payment is direct and Bitcoin can be withdrawn to an exchange or wallet held online. E-Wallet ServicesA safe and inexpensive e-Wallet such as Skrill, PayPal or Neteller can be a good alternative to a credit card payment. For example, a Skrill digital wallet can be loaded with money with multiple Norwegian bank accounts or credit cards, so you can easily finance your online casino account from Norway. With a single PIN and password, Skrill money is then transferred to the online casino or gambling site of your choice. PaysafecardPaysafecard is a reliable prepaid voucher payment system. It's also available to Norwegians, making it one of the best ways to fund a gambling account. Paysafecard works by purchasing prepaid vouchers from a registered store. You search for outlets in Norway on the Paysafecard website. When you sign up at online casinos, Norway-based gamblers can enter a simple Paysafecard number and transfer money through the cashier. There are no fees and it is possible to buy multiple vouchers at once. Popular Norway Online Casino Games BonusesWhen we recommend an online or mobile casino, Norway players should feel assured that they will receive a large library of casino games and benefits. Here's an overview of the casino games and bonuses you'll find on our trusted sites: Casino GamesOur top Norway online casinos feature huge portfolios of gaming titles so you can have no trouble finding a site with your favorite games. Online casino games available in Norway include blackjack, roulette, poker (and many poker variants), baccarat, and many others. Of course, there are also hundreds - sometimes even thousands - of slot machines available in Norway's online casinos. Europe is a hub for slot content, and the casinos available to Norwegian players reflect the variety of vendors in the region. BonusesCasino sites like to keep players engaged by offering bonuses and promotions. Norway's online casino sites are no different. You'll probably come across a lot of offers as you explore our best casino sites. One of the most common bonus types is a no deposit bonus. Norway online casino players will sometimes use a small amount of money on the site before ever making a deposit. It is an online/mobile casinos way of welcoming new players and kicking off their time with the site. Also keep an eye out for free spins, which allows you to make a few spins on slot games without paying. All the wins you land can earn you some extra real money to be used later on your online casino site. Finally, loyalty and rewards programs can benefit Norway online casino players. The more you play, the more rewards you get. Each program is slightly different, so it's a good idea to check the fine print to be 100% sure of what the loyalty program offers. Norway Online Gambling: The State PlayersIs online casino legal in Norway? Yes, it's not. the state-run Norsk Tipping site offers both online and mobile games to Norwegians. It also helps in running a cross-border Viking Lotto with other countries. It gained the monopoly to run Norway's online casino games after the Gaming Act was passed. The site also has a mobile app to play on smartphones and tablets. For a state-run online casino, Norway players actually have a lot of choice on Norsk Tipping. KongKasino has several dozen modern video slots. Usually from IGT, there is a decent spread of up-to-date games and player favorites. IGT's classic Cleopatra slot can be played for real money, as well as other top titles from the American developer such as Da Vinci Diamonds and Golden Goddess.Norsk Rikstoto handles bets on greyhounds and horse racing. Like Norsk Tipping, Norsk Rikstoto is supervised by the Norwegian Gaming and Foundation Authority. First, it focuses on horse racing throughout Europe, as well as harness racing and greyhound racing. Punters can enjoy specials on prize pools for selected races. Along with races of major courses in France, bets are allowed on certain races from Swedish courses such as Solvalla.Norway has a long history of horse and harness racing. The The Oslo Prix is the largest Group One harness race in the country and has been held since 1966. The highlight of the flat season, the Polar Cup, is run at the Øvrevoll racecourse and rewards about 1 million kronor in prize money for the winning horses. Understanding legal gambling in NorwayMonopolies on the gambling industry are a common theme in countries, and the Norway online casino scene is similar. Like the gambling situation in Finland and Sweden, Norway has consistently tried to block foreign operators from protecting the government's revenue stream. However, unlike its Scandi neighbours, Norway is not a member of the EU and therefore cannot be pressured into complying with European regulations on the free movement of services. In 2018, Norsk Rikstoto and Norsk Tipping are the only two legal gambling companies in Norway. Lotteries, sports betting and instant betting markets are controlled by Norsk Tipping, while all sports related to animals, including horse racing, are provided by Norsk Rikstoto. Both companies are wholly state-owned and regulated by the Norwegian Gaming Authority (Lotteritilsynet). Three pieces of legislation – the Totalizer Act of 1927, the Gaming Scheme Act of 1992 and the Lottery Act of 1995 served to strengthen the monopoly, and more or less all forms of gambling, online or otherwise outside these two companies is considered illegal in the country. An exception is private parties, which can be organized in private homes, as long as they are not run as a business. Online gambling - aside from the markets and games offered by Norsk Tipping - is considered illegal in the country, and the government have taken significant steps to prevent foreign companies from conducting business in Norway. However, this hasn't stopped many operators from still doing it, and many of Norway's online and mobile casinos continue today. They used America's Unlawful Internet Enforcement Act of 2006 as a guide to their own Payment Act in 2010, which prohibits banks and payment processors from facilitating transactions to offshore casinos and betting sites. The legislation is not aimed at individuals, but at financial institutions instead, and it makes it a little harder for Norwegian players to fund an account. However, in 2011, a full year after the introduction of the policy, more than 300 operators admitted that they continue to accept bets from Norwegian players. After several years of toying with the idea of setting up a framework for legalized offshore gaming, the Norwegian government finally decided to stick to the status quo. In 2017, the head of the Norwegian Gambling Authority announced that the state-run model was the best way to protect vulnerable gamblers. Some profits from the Norsk Tipping and Norsk Rikstoto sites go to charities and charities. Although Norway's online casinos have no state support, players can still access them, and operators still offer their games to Norwegian players. Slot Machines in NorwaySlot machines have an interesting history in When they were first introduced into the country, they fell under the 1995 Lotteries Act. In 1990, gross slot turnover was only kr200m, but by 2004 this had grown to kr26bn, about 64% of the total gross turnover for the gambling and lottery sector. The Lottery Act certified charitable organizations to run slot machines, but it has not restricted private companies from running the machines on behalf of an organization and sharing the profits. The Norwegian government banned slots in 2007, and 20,000 machines were removed from the country, with an official reason given that slots had been responsible for a rise in problem gambling. However, in 2009 the Norwegian Government reintroduced slots in the form of interactive video terminals (IVTs), under the control of Norsk Tipping. These machines require a special card to play them. However, IVTs are very different from what players in Las Vegas or the UK would recognize as slot machines. Players can set limits and payouts, and bets are made via a prepaid card. No physical NOK cash goes in or out of the terminals. Poker and norwegian ChampionshipsNorwegians have been big fans of poker since the first online casino sites appeared in Norway in the late 1990s. Like other Scandinavian countries, Norway has produced a number of top online pros such as Johnny Lodden and Annette Obrestad. Local celebrities such as model Aylar Lie have also secured good cashes on the world stage. And in 2007, Obrestad became the youngest ever World Series of Poker champion, winning the event's inaugural tournament in Europe.In 2014, the then culture minister proposed a bill to allow real money home games in Norway. A ban on live poker prior to this would have meant that the Norwegian Poker Championship was held on foreign soil. Although the 2015 Norwegian Championships were held in Oslo, the Norwegian championships have since returned to foreign casinos. In 2017, the Nordic Poker Championship was held in Prague and had a guaranteed prize pool worth 1m euros. Find the best Norwegian Online Casinos for 2021 Norway might have some of the strictest internet gaming laws in Europe, but there are still real money online casinos to play. At the Norsk Tipping online casino, Norway-based gamblers can get their fix from a decent range of games. And sports gamblers and lottery players are well served by other government gaming websites. There is a crackdown currently on advertising by overseas betting sites appearing on cable channels. As of 2018, Norsk Tipping and Rikstoto are the only sites that can advertise gambling on Norwegian TV. But with so many avenues open to Norway online casino gamblers, it is questionable whether any further bans will work.
